

“JACK’S LEGEND”

Once upon a time, Jack was drinking a beer in a pub.

The Devil was sitting next to Jack: he was drinking a beer too.

“I have no money for my beer!” – said Jack.

“Can you help me?”

“Of course, I can” – answered the Devil and he immediately transformed himself into coins and banknotes.

Jack put the money into his wallet.

“Open your wallet” – shouted the Devil.

“Let me out! If you let me out I will not open my door when you come to Hell!”.

Jack opened his wallet and the Devil came out: he was free!

“Thank you, Jack!” – said the Devil. – “Bye bye.”

Time passed and Jack died.

When he arrived in Heaven ...

“Hello Jack!” – said the Angel – “ you are a bad man! You cannot enter here! Go to Hell! Go to the Devil!”

Jack went to Hell and knocked at the door.

The Devil answered: "I cannot open my door to you ...Do you remember the promise in the pub?"

"Yes, Devil, I remember it!" – answered Jack.

So Jack didn't go to Heaven.

So Jack didn't go to Hell.

He came back to earth and now Jack still walks around at night with a pumpkin lantern, called JACK O' LANTERN!

